

Dear FCC,

While I cherish the freedom of the press, the Sinclair move to air the "Stolen Honor" film is neither newsworthy, nor informative to any community. It is, however, clearly a political advertisement, and clearly bias. I do not believe Fahrenheit 911 should be allowed to be aired on television networks for the same reason. If people want to see it, they can go to the movies, or rent it on DVD to watch in the privacy of their own homes.

If you allow this film to be aired, I know without a doubt that Fahrenheit 911 by Michael Moore should also be allowed to be aired on any television network.

I hope your commission moves swiftly to prohibit the airing of the Sinclair movie, or in the alternative, quickly give permission to the networks to air the Fahrenheit 911 movie.
